Corporations' complexities...

Yesterday, the coordination committee of the Mahayuti met. The workers need to be put to work to prepare for the upcoming local body elections. It is very important. No matter who the government is, not everyone can become a legislator or parliamentarian. Then how to take care of the working workers. This is the question. To take care of the workers, appoint them to the corporation. All the ruling parties are adopting this path. Just as ministers struggle to get lucrative ministries or lucrative accounts in the cabinet. Similarly, they should get prestigious or lucrative corporations and make appointments to them. For this, the workers working for the leaders struggle with their body, mind and money. The party should always have vitality. Therefore, it is necessary to always keep such workers hanging on hope. It is being said that the criteria for appointments to the corporation were decided in the coordination committee meeting of all the three ruling parties yesterday. Generally, a period of one and a half to two months will pass in this. After that, it will be said that the appointments will be made. Winning the local body elections. It is essential for the ruling party. Local self-government bodies are the rightful power centers for the activists who work at the grassroots level, that is, those who reach out to the voters. All parties carry out the tradition of distributing chocolates to the activists in this way. Although there are many corporations in the state, now these corporations do not have the power they used to have. Currently, many corporations exist only in name. Special initiatives for the welfare of the people are not implemented through them. This criticism is always made. But still the attraction of the corporation remains. Not all activists can be given important positions in the government. Although this is true, the corporation still attracts activists. Earlier, a good deal of effort was made to get appointed to the Maharashtra State Electricity Board. Now, after the Electricity Board was abolished, companies like MAHAGENCO, MAHAVITARAN and MAHATRANSCO have come into existence. Therefore, many people have their eyes on these companies. Earlier, Marapam, i.e. Maharashtra State Transport Corporation, was closely watched by many. This ST corporation is now going down the drain day by day. The employees' salaries are barely paid from ticket sales and the concessions given in ST travel. The expenses are barely covered from that money. The loss is not decreasing. Although many such corporations exist. Even though many people do not know their names. But still, an appointment should be made to some corporation or the other. Many workers are eagerly waiting for this. Now the leadership will have to do a lot to take care of all the three parties in the alliance. As usual, the Chief Minister will personally look into this and remove the displeasure of all these workers. In fact, many people should want to do so. Whoever will be appointed to these corporations. Our best wishes to them. From now on, all the workers who want to join the corporations should work hard and get their rightful positions. For this, they do not need to do anything different. Every worker has a godfather. They perform their duties by showing their dominance. Because they want to win the next election only on the strength of these workers. This experiment in politics has been going on continuously for many years. There is no doubt that it will continue in the future as well. Now we just have to wait for the right moment. If that moment comes, there is no doubt at all that the workers will be fine.

India refuses to sign joint statement on terror at SCO

New Delhi, June 26 (UNI) India has refused to sign the joint statement of member countries on terrorism, foiling the intentions of China and Pakistan in the meeting of Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO). Sources said China and Pakistan did not want to mention the Pahalgal terrorist attack in the joint statement and instead were adamant on including the case of the Jaffar train hijack in Baluchistan in the statement. The two-day meeting of the defence ministers from the member countries of the SCO is currently taking place in Qingdao, China. Defence Minister Rajnath Singh is representing India in the meeting, which is being chaired by China. Sources said that India strongly objected to the proposal and refused to sign the statement. As a result, a joint statement will not be issued following the conclusion of the SCO meeting. Earlier in the meeting, Singh had clarified India's stand on terrorism before the member countries and said in clear words that every act of terrorism is criminal and unjustifiable and that the organisation should unite to root out this threat to collective security. Singh said, "Peace and prosperity cannot co-exist with terrorism and the spread of weapons of mass destruction in the hands of non-state actors. The perpetrators, supporters, financiers and sponsors of terrorism need to be brought to justice." He clearly said in the presence of Pakistan and China that through Operation Sindoor, India has exercised its right to defend against terrorism and prevent cross-border attacks. He said the hideouts of terrorism are no longer safe, and India will not hesitate to target them. Referring to India's policy against terrorism, Singh called upon member countries to unite to end this threat to collective security. Addressing the Defence Ministers, SCO secretary general, director of the SCO Regional Anti-Terrorism Structure (RATS) and other distinguished delegates, the Defence Minister said the biggest challenge facing the region relate to lack of peace, security and trust, with rising radicalism, extremism and terrorism being the root causes of these problems.

But Shukla's role goes beyond making history. He is the pilot of the mission — the one responsible for flying the spacecraft, ensuring the safety of all crew members, and steering it back home. "He went as the pilot, carrying the team to the ISS, and it's his responsibility to bring them back safely," said his sister, Suchi Mishra, her voice trembling with pride. "That level of responsibility is massive — and we are proud that he has been trusted with such a role."

Sharad Pawar to participate in stir called by Thackeray brothers in Mumbai

decision. Education Minister Dada Bhuse met Raj Thackeray today and tried to explain the government position. However, Thackeray made it clear that he did not accept the government position. On the other hand, Shiv Sena (UBT) chief Uddhav Thackeray has also taken the MNS side, saying he was not opposed to Hindi, but to the "imposition" of Hindi. NCP supremo Pawar said Thackeray brothers' words over Hindi language were not wrong. He said everybody agreed that Hindi should not be made compulsory in primary education, which is a "correct position". He said there was no problem in learning Hindi after the 5th standard. "A large section of the country speaks Hindi, so there is no reason to consider Hindi as a side language. But, how many languages can children absorb at a certain age? If an additional load of language is put on him, it will not be right," he said.

Replying to a reporter's query in this regard at a press conference here held to share the Modi Government's achievements in past eleven years, Patil made it clear that any decision regarding the treaty would be made by the Indian government, under the leadership of the Prime Minister. "There is no update on the status of the treaty. Any decision taken will solely benefit the nation," he asserted during a press

His comments are his own concerns. We are not intimidated by hollow threats." Patil quoted a popular Hindi phrase, "Hum gidar bhakkiyon se nahi darte," which translates to "We are not afraid of the growls of a jackal." Golden arch highway set to reshape Nagpur's regional connectivity

Nagpur 26 June: In a major infrastructural leap, the Nagpur Metropolitan Region Development Authority (NMRDA) has proposed the 'Golden Arch' highway—a third ring road envisioned to significantly enhance traffic circulation and regional integration around Nagpur. Planned as a circular outer corridor beyond the existing Outer Ring Road, the Golden Arch aims to link major national highways — NH-53, NH-44, NH-47, and NH-347 — and act as a strategic bypass for heavy logistics traffic. This move is expected to decongest the city's core while bolstering Nagpur's role as a central logistic hub. The highway's alignment will connect key industrial and economic pockets such as MIHAN and Butibori MIDC, while also integrating the upcoming Central Commercial District (CCD) at Hingna. A major intersection with the Samruddhi Mahamarg is also being planned, with options for a flyover or underpass under review. In preparation, NMRDA commissioned a comprehensive topographical survey through a Delhi-based firm, assessing elevation, land alignment, and natural features.

The Rs 6 lakh study will guide the optimal route planning. The project will follow a 50:50 funding model, with the state government expected to handle land acquisition costs. Implementation of Clause 37 of the MRTP Act, crucial for initiating land-use change, is in the pipeline. Land acquisition surveys are underway, and initial documents have been submitted for approval. Once cleared, the Golden Arch is poised to ease traffic, streamline freight movement, and spur both industrial and residential development across Nagpur's periphery — laying the groundwork for the city's future growth.

Disha Eye Bank awards certificates to eye donor families

YAVATMAL / NAGPUR POST:A ceremony to honour those who donated their loved ones' eyes posthumously to Disha Education Foundation's Disha Eye Bank so that the needy can see this beautiful world was held in Yavatmal under the auspices of Disha Education Foundation Amravati and Sanjeevan Multispecialty Hospital Yavatmal. The program was held on Sunday, June 15 at 10 am at Sanjeevan Hospital Auditorium. The program was presided over by Raju Jain, the inspiration behind the eye movement in Yavatmal. He has been implementing the eye donation movement in Yavatmal for the past 30 years. The chief guests on this occasion were Dr. Vijay Kawalkar, Dr. Aparna Baheti, Dr. Alok Gupta, Prof. Kashinath Lahore. According to modern medicine, today, if a person donates his eyes, 10 people can gain sight with both their eyes. Today, according to laser, one eye transplant can benefit five to six people. If there is no vision, the brain does not develop. Dr. Aparna Baheti, President of the Ophthalmological Society, expressed the view that the eye donation movement needs to be expanded so that everyone can see this beautiful world. There is a need to increase the number of eye donors today. In two years, only 38 eye donations were made in Yavatmal. In fact, this movement should be taken forward in the entire district. There are many misconceptions about eye donation. The biggest misconception is that the person who donates an eye is born blind in the next birth. While giving information about eye donation, Swapnil Gawande, Founder President of Disha Eye Bank, said that 38 to 40 thousand eye donations were made across India last year. History has been created after 41 years: Mahwash Arjumand

Nagpur 26 June: Group Captain Shubhanshu Shukla, born on October 10, 1985, in Lucknow, the capital of Uttar Pradesh, is one of the four astronauts selected for ISRO's Gaganyaan mission. He was commissioned into the Indian Air Force (IAF) as a fighter pilot in June 2006. Shukla was selected in August 2024 for the Axiom Mission 4 (Ax-4)—a historic international private spaceflight mission. On June 25, 2025, Shubhanshu Shukla made history as India's second astronaut in space and the first Indian to visit the International Space Station (ISS). This milestone not only marks a major personal achievement but also symbolizes a new era for India's human spaceflight program, especially as a precursor to Gaganyaan. This moment is a proud milestone for India and the world, coming 41 years after the country's first astronaut, Rakesh Sharma, ventured into space aboard the Soviet Soyuz T-11 on April 3, 1984. The Ax-4 mission, originally scheduled to launch on June 10, 2025, faced delays due to technical issues (LOX leak), weather conditions, and ISS safety checks. Though ISRO later announced a new target of June 19, NASA further postponed the launch, pushing it past the June 22 window for additional safety protocol assessments. Finally, the mission launched on June 25, 2025, aboard a SpaceX Falcon 9 rocket and Dragon capsule, in a mission operated by Axiom Space in partnership with NASA and SpaceX. The mission duration is expected to be 14 to 21 days.

Energy hub in Chandrapur-Nagpur-Yavatmal can generate 3.4 lakh jobs

Nagpur 26 June: A green transition in Chandrapur-Nagpur-Yavatmal (CNY), Maharashtra's energy hub, can unlock Rs 5.4 lakh crore investment, 3.4 lakh jobs and 4% regional GDP growth, a report by the International Forum for Environment, Sustainability and Technology (iFOREST), an environmental think tank, claimed on Wednesday (June 25, 2025) in Mumbai. iFOREST released the Just Transition Investment Plan for the CNY region, which accounts for 100% of the state's coal production and half its coal-based power. The report stated that the CNY region will witness a decline in coal production by 50% in the next decade due to resource exhaustion. As a solution, the closed and retiring coal mines can be converted into Maharashtra's green industry and energy hub. This blueprint will help turn the traditional energy cluster into a green investment destination by developing strategic economic nodes and unlocking the region's renewable energy and industrial potential. We have to look towards the alternative, which talks about economy and environment," said Dr. Chandra Bhushan, CEO of iFOREST, while speaking at the conference held in Mumbai for releasing the Just Transition Investment Plan report. "The 10-year blueprint identifies three Economic Development Nodes—Bhadrawati—Wani, Rajura—Chandrapur, and Umrer—spanning over 6,000 hectares of coal mine land that can be used for developing green energy and industrial hubs, as it has the highest solar energy opportunities—37 GW. For land reclamation and repurposing, it will require 233,400 crore funds from public investments, coal companies and power utilities," mentions the report. Chief Secretary, Govt. of Maharashtra, Sujata Saunik highlighted that the focus should be to attract investment for renewable energy projects and green industrial clusters, while green transition should be "far-reaching and fair". Meanwhile, Chief Economic Advisor to the Chief Minister and CEO of MITRA, Praveen Pardeshi, emphasised making farmers independent as they are heavily dependent on electricity for water. "40 % of Maharashtra's energy is used by farmers to pump water for irrigation. Moving them to solar pumps will be significant. We need innovative nudge policies and behaviour change incentives to support a transition of this scale from traditional energy sources," said Mr. Pardeshi.

This wall has been built without the permission of the Municipal Corporation or a no objection certificate. Raikwar alleged and pointed that because of the wall on the drain, the risk of flood in the area has increased. Brave act by teenager saves brother as tree falls in Nagpur police line, daughter of Inspector Amit Dolas praised Nagpur 26 June: A tragic incident was narrowly averted on Tuesday morning when a large tree collapsed on Quarter No. 94 inside the Nagpur Police Line premises, injuring some children. The situation could have turned fatal if not for the quick and selfless act of a 15-year-old girl, who risked her own life to save her younger brother. The children injured in the incident have been identified as Samruddhi Amit Dolas (15) and Siddhartha Amit Dolas (6)—daughter and son of former Nagpur Police Inspector Amit Dolas, who was recently transferred to Pimpri-Chinchwad. The siblings were playing near their residential quarters when the tree suddenly came crashing down. In a display of immense courage, Samruddhi quickly pushed her younger brother out of the tree's path, shielding him from the brunt of the impact. Both children were injured but escaped with non-life-threatening wounds and were immediately taken for medical treatment. Despite the seriousness of the incident, the fallen tree remained unattended for the rest of the day. Residents, including the Dolas family, repeatedly alerted senior officials to clear the debris or inspect other vulnerable trees. The event has not only highlighted the poor maintenance within the Police Line premises but has also raised concerns about the delayed emergency response, especially in an area that houses families of active and retired police personnel.

A Double-Edged Sword

Populism, a term that originated in America in the late 20th century, refers to a political approach that appeals to ordinary people who feel that their concerns are disregarded by established elite groups. In the Indian context, populism often involves the indiscriminate use of public resources to give goods away to voters, a form of crowd appeasement politics. The rise of populism is a global phenomenon, evident in democracies like the USA, Greece, Italy, the Czech Republic, and India. As a "thin ideology," populism allows other ideologies to be superimposed on it, functioning both as an ideology and a political strategy. In 2018, The Atlantic noted that four of the world's most populous democracies—the US, Brazil, Indonesia, and India—were governed by populist leaders. This trend can be attributed to growing citizen dissatisfaction with mainstream political institutions that fail to respond to grievances and demands. Two broad types of populism can be identified: exclusionary populism, which often threatens minorities, and inclusionary populism, which focuses on incorporating the lower rungs of society. In India, Indira Gandhi's "Garibi Hatao" campaign exemplified inclusionary populism, while Narendra Modi's brand of politics has been associated with right-wing populism, branding the perceived "common folk" against the pluralistic elite. Populism in India has its roots in the widespread discontent against British colonial rule. The freedom movement, led by charismatic leaders like Mahatma Gandhi, resonated with the masses and reflected this sentiment. Following independence, the Constitution's architects crafted a framework emphasising parliamentary democracy, a union of states, electoral franchise, democratic socialism, secularism, and other principles. Post-colonial India witnessed a surge in agrarian populism in the 1960s and 1970s, particularly with Indira Gandhi's "Garibi Hatao" campaign. This initiative led to the implementation of various poverty alleviation programs, bank nationalisation, and the takeover of other industries. Notably, Indira Gandhi also deinstitutionalised the Indian National Congress, bypassing its internal democratic procedures to consolidate her power. The slogan "Indira is India" exemplified her efforts to personalise politics.

Pratiksha Rai portrays three undercover disguises in Zee TV's Vasudha

Mumbai 26 June: The drama in Zee TV's Vasudha is set to hit a new high as the story takes a gripping turn. In a bold twist, Karishma (Pratiksha Rai) secures bail and walks out of prison, only to head straight back to the Chauhan house. Fueled by suspicion that her cousin and partner-in-revenge, Megha (Mandeep Kaur), has developed feelings for Devansh (Abhishek Sharma), Karishma fears their carefully laid plan against the Chauhan family may be falling apart. But she isn't returning quietly.

In a daring performance, Pratiksha slips into three dramatic disguises to confront Megha—first as a Banjaran in vibrant Rajasthani attire, then as a moustache male servant, and finally Megha's bua under a ghonghat. Each look isn't just part of the plot—it's a performance. Behind the scenes, these transformations were no less intense. From prosthetics and moustaches to heavy jewellery and layered makeup, each look required hours of prep, especially the male avatar shot in the heat. Yet, with grace and grit, Pratiksha delivered a performance that was not only convincing but also layered, emotional, and unforgettable. Pratiksha Rai said, "Playing Karishma has been very close to my heart. Over time, the audience has started reacting so strongly to her actions that I often get messages saying, 'Why are you always troubling Vasudha?' (laughs). That's when I knew the character was truly making an impact. With this new track, I got the opportunity to take Karishma to another level of unpredictability and drama, donning three completely different disguises in just three days. Each look came with its own set of challenges—right from adapting to a new voice and body language to wearing heavy Rajasthani jewellery one day, a realistic moustache and turban the next. The male disguise, especially, really pushed me to modulate my voice and change my physicality." She added, "It was physically and mentally exhausting, but I took it up as a challenge because these are the moments we live for as actors. What made it all worth it was the thrill of slipping into these characters and bringing Karishma's desperation and determination alive on screen. It's been one of the most challenging and exciting experiences of my journey in Vasudha—a track full of suspense, emotion, and transformation. I truly can't wait for the audience to see the drama that's about to unfold!" While Pratiksha is bold about exploring her character, the chaos in the Chauhan household is only just beginning. With Megha discovering that Vasudha secretly wears a mangalsutra in Devansh's name, the emotional stakes are at an all-time high. Betrayal, blackmail, and long-buried secrets are about to surface. Will Vasudha (Priya Shakur) uncover Megha's hidden agenda and her plot for revenge against the Chauhan family? To know more, tune in to Vasudha every day at 10:15 pm only on Zee TV!

When the tail wags the dog

In the end, Tehran's roar of anger over the blatant violation of its sovereignty by Israel and the US came out as little more than a hesitant whimper. Its missile attack on the US Central Command air base at Al Udeid in Qatar on the night of June 23 had been telegraphed well in advance, and the 40 American fighter jets and several thousand defence personnel had been evacuated to safe locations. Their air defence systems were waiting, the incoming missiles were intercepted, but Iran's faltering regime could announce that it had hit back at the enemy and could now accept a ceasefire. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu called it a historic win for his country. For Iran, pragmatism and a strong instinct for self-preservation had prevailed over bravado and bluster. Like Iraq under Saddam Hussein, the Iranian regime stood exposed before the world and before its own people for the shambolic performance of its armed forces in the face of Israel's technological superiority. Its vast defence and security infrastructure was clearly more effective in suppressing its own people than in countering a real enemy. Having survived the ordeal, the regime quickly declared its own victory so that it can again turn its misogynist eye towards its own people. Even as the guns have nervously fallen silent, it is useful to review the events of a truly unprecedented fortnight since Israel launched its unprovoked attack on Iran's nuclear and military facilities on June 13. Netanyahu has clearly accomplished something of a coup in the US, even as a second one in Tehran remains an aspirational goal.

Against odds, he persuaded President Donald Trump to use the full force of US weaponry against Iranian nuclear facilities in Fordow, Natanz and Isfahan. Trump agreed to do Netanyahu's bidding despite testimony by Director of National Intelligence Tulsi Gabbard before the US Congress in March that Iran was not building a nuclear weapon and that Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei had not reauthorised the nuclear weapons programme that had been suspended in 2003. And Trump acquiesced to Netanyahu's demand despite strong opposition from MAGA stalwarts like Steve Bannon, Tucker Carlson and Marjorie Taylor Greene and his own campaign pledges to stay away from foreign conflicts. From a distance, it looked like a case of the tail wagging the dog? Netanyahu's own histrionics were on repeated display as he warned against Iran's suspected nuclear weapons programme as an imminent and existential threat for Israel. It's a line that he has been practising since he was a young Member of the Knesset in 1992, one that he has repeated in testimony at the US Congress in 2002, at the UN in 2012 and on numerous other occasions. "By next spring, at most by next summer..." he cried as he displayed a kindergarten-level cartoon drawing of a bomb in the UN General Assembly. His melodrama invoked incredulous gasps from an audience that still remembered US Secretary of State Colin Powell brandishing fuzzy satellite images to make the infamous case about Saddam's 'Weapons of Mass Destruction' as a prelude to the disastrous invasion of Iraq. In between bombing Iranian facilities and carrying out targeted assassinations of key figures from the Iranian regime, Netanyahu also shifted gears on the dubious and dangerous gambit of regime change in Iran. The notion quickly travelled to Washington and produced some genuinely mind-bending dissonance, with Vice President Vance and Secretary of State Rubio vigorously denying any such intent, while Trump mused about its virtues in his social media posts.

Memories of the unmitigated disasters that followed US-led regime change operations in Afghanistan, Iraq, Libya and elsewhere were temporarily erased by Washington's selective amnesia. Amid the din of the 12-day war and its aftermath, three elements stood out. First, the emasculation of the UN and the burial of international law under the debris of the 14 GBU-57 'bunker buster' bombs that the US dropped on Iran. The collapse of the multilateral international order is now proceeding on steroids. It is being replaced by the ancient reality of hard power spelled out by Thucydides some 2,500 years ago. "The strong do what they can and the weak suffer what they must," aka "Jiski laathi, uski bhains". Second, the hypocrisy of the Western nations as they line up to support the case for Israel's attack on Iran. In doing so, they ignore the glaring contradiction that Israel's formidable fighting force, armed with an estimated 90 nuclear bombs and enjoying the unlimited support of the world's only military superpower, faces 'an existential threat' from Iran because of suspicion that it is developing a nuclear weapon. Commitments to a rules-based international order and sovereign borders that were so central when Russia invaded Ukraine now lie discarded in the dustbins of convenience. And third, beware the law of unintended consequences. Several middle powers will now view the acquisition of nuclear weapons as an essential insurance policy. The case histories of Ukraine and Iran will be contrasted with the experience of Israel and North Korea and indeed of India and Pakistan to reinforce the logic of going nuclear. No one should be surprised if Iran becomes the first in this race to go nuclear despite the damage wrought on its declared and clandestine facilities.

The Arab countries of the Gulf also got a reality check as they faced precisely the kind of scenario that they had hoped to avoid when they rolled out the red carpet for Trump in May. Transactional deals were happy to take the big arms deals, the business and crypto contracts and even the gilded Boeing 747, but the vital interests of his allies in the Gulf quickly fell by the wayside.

Their bents of Iran as a regional bully that was bent upon exporting its medieval version of Islam to its neighbours are now replaced by two more immediate concerns — of Israel as the belligerent regional hegemon, and of a wounded Iran that had its back to the wall and could have lashed out by attacking their oil facilities, the US bases that they host or even by blocking the Strait of Hormuz.

During a casual conversation, he narrated an incident that completely caught him off guard. He was scolding his son quite seriously when the boy calmly responded with, 'I like it.' My neighbour was baffled and asked his son why he would say that."

That's when his wife explained that it's a popular dialogue from Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai, used by the character I play — Saxena! After that, he started watching the show himself. Today, it's his favourite show, and I think he has become one of his favourite characters too." Saanand added, "Fan interactions, whether in everyday life or any gatherings, always leave me touched. Even at Bollywood parties and social events, people come up to me quoting the dialogue and appreciating the role. It's a surreal feeling to be recognised not just as an actor, but as a character that people have truly embraced. The love I get from my audience... I like it."

My character barely speaks, but always steals the scene: Nikkhil Arya

Mumbai 26 June: Sony SAB's Tenali Rama is a historical drama showcasing Tenali's (played by Krishna Bharadwaj) wit and wisdom—and has earned a loyal audience across generations. At the heart of this entertaining yet layered show, is the Kotwal of Vijayanagar kingdom, portrayed with quiet strength and seriousness by Nikkhil Arya. His composed performance anchors even the most intense situations. In this candid conversation, Nikkhil Arya shares what drew him to the show's unique style, how he enjoys playing a quiet yet impactful character, and his off-screen bond with his co-actors on set.

1. Tenali Rama blends history, and life lessons in a format that's both entertaining and layered. As an actor, what about the show intrigued you most? What really drew me in was the show's format. It's not the usual historical drama filled with gods, wars, or larger-than-life battles. Instead, serious mysteries are solved in a light, fun, and satirical way—yet each story ends with a meaningful social message. Balancing that tone was both refreshing and challenging.

2. Your character has evolved significantly; what have been the most rewarding (or demanding) moments? How do you personally connect with your character's journey?

I'm glad my character has evolved so much. I play the kotwal of the kingdom—a serious man who rarely smiles or speaks. But somehow, that straight-faced humour in tricky situations has really worked. Shifting from quiet scenes to ones with emotional depth has been creatively satisfying. I also relate to the character's values and discipline.

3. Without relying heavily on dialogue, your character still commands attention. What's your process when performance hinges more on physicality and presence than spoken words?

That's actually one of the most challenging and fun parts of this role. You don't need to make faces or be loud to be funny—it's all about timing, expressions, and stillness. It's tough to pull off, but when it clicks, it really stands out. That's what keeps it exciting.

4. Themes like loyalty, wit, and justice are central to your character. How did you prepare to bring out these virtues on screen while keeping the character grounded and relatable?

These qualities really resonate with me personally. The only difference is that the character belongs to a different era, so I had to work on aspects like body language and speech to make him feel authentic, yet true to that time. It's all about finding that sweet spot.

5. You've worked closely with Kunal, Aditya, and Krishna. How has that camaraderie off-screen influenced your performances on-screen? Any behind-the-scenes anecdotes that reflect your chemistry? The bond we share off-screen definitely reflects on-screen. The four of us get along really well, and that comfort makes our scenes flow naturally. One hilarious moment I remember was when I got praised for a shot—only to find out later that my wig was missing! The makeup guy had forgotten to put on the wig, and none of us noticed until the entire scene was done. We had to reshoot everything, but we couldn't stop laughing about it.

6. What can viewers expect in the upcoming episodes?

There's so much more fun, unexpected twists, and clever storytelling in store for the audience! What excites me the most is that even though my character rarely communicates through words, he still manages to leave an impact. It's challenging yet incredibly rewarding to convey emotions, wit, and presence mostly through expressions and body language. If the audience is connecting with him despite his silence, I think that's a small but meaningful win for me as an actor. It's proof that sometimes, it's not about how much you say—it's about how you make people feel.

Tune in to Tenali Rama every Monday to Saturday at 8:00 PM, only on Sony SAB

42 Year old Palgaon road issue resolved

Korapna 26 June (NAGPUR POST/TC): A resolution has finally been reached in the long-pending Palgaon road issue, which had remained unresolved for the past 42 years. The sit-in protest organized by Palgaon residents against the Ultratech Cement Company from June 23 to 25 took a decisive turn. Although an attempt was made to lock the plant gates in the afternoon of June 25, the company provided a written assurance later that night, leading to the suspension of the protest. By the next morning, everything returned to normal, ending the standoff between protesters, workers, and the company. During the agitation, Rajura constituency MLA Deorao Bhongle stood firmly with the villagers, being present at the protest site for all three days to support their struggle. On June 25, the company shut down the plant in the afternoon, which escalated tensions. However, a satisfactory resolution was reached during a late-night discussion attended by MLA Deorao Bhongle, Sarpanch Arun Ragit, Sub-Divisional Officer Ravindra Mane, Tehsildar Pallavi Akhare, and Police Inspector Shivaji

Kadam. The company, via a written commitment, assured that by September 2025, it would construct a 12-foot wide tar road from Palgaon to the mine gate, along with 1.875-meter shoulders on both sides. Unit Head Shiram P.S. personally visited the protest site and gave a written assurance regarding the fulfillment of workers' legitimate demands.

All eyes are now on the timely completion of the roadwork. Protesters have clearly stated that if immediate action is not taken in accordance with the given assurances, a more intense agitation will follow. This marks the second protest at the company gate. The first time, the company had promised to begin road construction by May 30 after discussions with senior management. When that promise wasn't fulfilled, Palgaon residents were forced to protest again. "I too joined the protest for the second time, standing against the company," said MLA Deorao Bhongle. "Now that the company has given written assurance to complete the road by September 30, no further excuses will be tolerated if the promise is not kept."

Failure to comply with demand within 7 days would result in massive agitation

Salekasa 26 June (NAGPUR POST/TC): At Kawarabandh (Salekasa, Gondia), some influential persons have forcibly installed private pumps on the borewells approved by the government for public use and have started misusing the water supply which is being diverted only towards their farm and personal use. Due to this, other villagers are facing tremendous shortage of water. Amid this serious situation, Rohit Rajendra Banothe, an aware citizen of the village has submitted a written memorandum to the Gram Panchayat Secretary on Thursday. In the memorandum it has been clearly stated that this unjust and unconstitutional & the prevailing situation is resulting in spreading of discontent in the village. Two main demands have been put forth by the villagers:

1. Within seven days, administrative and legal action should be taken against all those persons who have misused water by installing private pumps without the approval of the government & administration. 2. Tax should be collected for the water used by these illegal pump holders during the past years and strict arrangements should be made in order to ensure that no person can carry out such illegal work in future.

The villagers say that when the borewell is approved by the government for sake of public use, then how can a few selected people misuse it. If the administration does not take appropriate action, then the water supply in the village will be completely disrupted and the guilty officials will have to bear the brunt of the consequences. The villagers have decided unanimously that they will not tolerate injustice and will fight till the last breath for the right to water.

DS Group's Pulse Candy becomes a Rs 750 crore consumer brand

New Delhi 26 June: The Dharampal Satyapal Group (DS Group), a leading FMCG conglomerate and multi-business corporation, has announced a significant milestone for one of its popular brands, Pulse Candy recorded over Rs 750 crore at consumer price in the FY 2024-25 translating into 750 crore Pulse candies being sold in one year making it India's largest distributed hard-boiled candy. This achievement establishes Pulse's strong market leadership in the hard-boiled candy segment for the last 9 years and its sustained appeal to consumers. Over the past three fiscal years, Pulse has registered an impressive Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 15% against a CAGR of 9% in the hard-boiled candy segment industry. This consistent growth in revenue highlights the brand's strong pull across both urban and rural markets, especially when the broader market dynamics have not been as buoyant. According to market data, Pulse candy currently holds a 19% market share in India's hard-boiled candy segment and has been growing consistently. This significant share, achieved in a highly competitive landscape, reflects the brand's strong consumer pull and high repeat purchase rates. "DS Group's vision for Pulse, a leading Indian ethnic confectionery brand in India, is to evolve it into a multi-format, multi-occasion offering. We plan to achieve this by strategically moving into adjacent product categories, exploring innovative new formats, and capitalizing on the rich tapestry of regional flavors. Our consistent focus on brand building, enhanced consumer engagement, and achieving deeper market penetration will help us maintain our leadership position. We're aggressively pursuing both domestic and international markets for expansion. On the domestic front, we're leveraging our robust distribution network that has a reach of over 35 lakh outlets across India," said Mr Rajiv Kumar, Vice Chairman, DS Group. "Pulse, with its delightful fusion of fruity and surprisingly tangy flavors, particularly the familiar raw mango with a zesty core, offered an unparalleled sensory experience to the consumer. This distinctly appealed to India's preference for tangy tastes which was a significant departure from the Western-format candies prevalent at the time. Pulse candy stands as a testament to the evolving Indian consumer who is more value-conscious today and DS Group truly leveraged this understanding by disrupting the market with its pricing strategy. At a time when 86% of the hard-boiled candy market was at the 50-paise price point, Pulse boldly launched at Rs 1. This wasn't just a higher price; it was a perceived higher value that resonated deeply with our palates and our pockets," Mr Kumar added. DS Group revolutionized the Indian confectionery market in 2015 with Pulse. Leveraging its expertise in flavors and fragrances and deep understanding of Indian ethnic tastes, the organization reimagined the hard-boiled candy into a vibrant sensory experience with a surprising tangy core. Pulse was born out of a sharp consumer insight. Mango once captured 50% of the hard-boiled candy market, with raw mango accounting for 26% of this share, making it the dominant flavor profile within that segment. Leveraging the nostalgic element of the raw mango, DS Group transformed it into an innovative product. Pulse's success stemmed from its raw mango flavor profile resonating with Indian palates and the signature tangy core delivering a layered sensation. Targeting all age groups, Pulse bridged traditional tastes with the contemporary format – it brought Indianness into a Western format, appealing to everyone. Driven initially by strong word-of-mouth and a loyal base, its differentiated positioning with "Paran Jaaye Par Pulse Na Jaaye" deeply resonated. Flavours like Guava, Orange, Pineapple, and Litchi, along with format innovations like 'Shots' in the original Kachcha Aam flavour, have helped keep the brand fresh and relevant in India's impulse confectionery segment.

Farmers face double sowing crisis

KALAMB / NAGPUR

POST: The farmers of Kalamb Taluka have been facing a severe and unprecedented crisis due to no rains. Farmers sowed in the fields since the beginning of Mrga Nakshatra, but due to no heavy rains, 50 percent of the seeds have not germinated, so farmers have been facing a double sowing crisis. Summer has gone into rain, then the rainy season is starting to feel like summer. In the month of May, the rains were very heavy, so the hopes of the farmers were revived and the farmers started sowing from the Rohani Nakshatra. The farmers started running to sow seeds and planted them. Some people took crop loans from banks, while others took private loans and sowed their crops to 'cover the black mother with a green shawl', and the Mrg Nakshatra has disappeared. Now the Adra Nakshatra is also dry and due to the game of heat and shade, 40 to 50 percent of the sown seeds have not sprouted. Now the farmers have no money left to sow again. Banks do not give loans to some farmers. Therefore, since government help is necessary to keep the farmers alive, the government should provide seeds, chemical fertilizers, and financial assistance through banks to all the farmers in Kalamb taluka for sowing again. Financial assistance is necessary if farmers' families are to be kept alive. The current environment, the mood of farmers is bad and can go to any level. Therefore, expressing the opinion that financial assistance is necessary if farmers' families are to be kept alive, on behalf of the farmers, Kalamb Bazar Samiti Director and Dattapur-Sarpadhari-Durg Group Gram Panchayat Sarpanch Pradeep alias Lala Gunwant Zhoting submitted a representation to the Tehsildar on June 25 and said that a copy has been given to the Chief Minister, Tribal Development Minister Ashok Uike, and the District Collector. While submitting the representation, Kalamb Bazar Samiti Director Pradeep Zhoting, former Rasa Group Gram Panchayat Sarpanch Pramod Asutkar, female and male farmers were present.

Water being wasted in vicinity of Wadi flyover

Wadi 26 June (NAGPUR POST/TC): Two big pits were dug by the Vena Reservoir Authority about 1.5 months ago under the flyover at Wadi on Amravati highway, in the vicinity of Jaiswal petrol pump. But till date, the local citizens do not understand the exact use of these pits. Thousands of litres of water are being wasted as it is emanating every day from these pits. Due to this continuous flowing water, the area has become muddy and unclean. As a result, pedestrians and vehicle owners are facing great difficulties while commuting through the spot. Not only this, this wastage of water is becoming a cause of concern among the local citizens. Locals have complained to the Vena Reservoir Authority in this concern and have demanded that these pits be filled up as soon as possible. Continuous wastage of water have raised questions about the functioning of the local administration. "At a time when there is a water shortage during the summer season, the wastage of thousands of litres of water is a very serious matter indeed," a local resident said. There is a demand coming to the fore that the concerned authorities should pay immediate attention to plug these potholes and stop the wastage of water.

Bajaj Finserv AMC launches small cap fund with a 3-in-1 advantage: Quality, Growth & Value

Nagpur 26 June: Bajaj Finserv AMC announces the launch of Bajaj Finserv Small Cap Fund, an open-ended equity scheme predominantly investing in small cap stocks, that offers quality, growth and value. The fund opens for subscription on June 27, 2025, and closes on July 11, 2025. The recent correction in small caps presents a compelling entry point for long-term investors. Even though over 80% of small-cap companies have posted strong profit growth of 38% and solid return ratios, most of them are still trading 15-45% below their 52-week highs. This recent market correction has opened up a clear gap between the true value of these companies and their current market prices. Coupled with structural tailwinds such as the 'Make in India' push, rising formalisation, and digital transformation across sectors, small caps are well-positioned to benefit disproportionately in the next growth cycle, making this an attractive investment opportunity. Bajaj Finserv Small Cap Fund is designed for investors aiming to build long-term wealth by investing primarily in equity and equity-related instruments of small cap companies. It goes beyond selecting quality stocks by rigorously filtering out companies with weak governance, inconsistent fundamentals, or financial red flags. This disciplined approach narrows the universe of over 1,100 small-cap stocks to a focused set of high-potential businesses. A key part of the process is our internal forensic and risk-aware analysis, which filters out companies with weak governance or financial red flags.

Money menace: Economic offences on the rise in Orange City: RTI

Nagpur 26 June: The Orange City is witnessing an alarming surge in economic crimes, with police struggling to crack most of the cases. Shockingly, as many as 817 economic offence cases remain unsolved in Nagpur, exposing the inability of law enforcement to keep pace with the growing financial fraud menace. An RTI query filed by activist Abhay Kolarkar has revealed that over the past 4 years and 5 months, Nagpur has recorded 2,566 cases related to economic offences, involving a staggering fraud amount exceeding Rs 1,100 crore. However, police have managed to recover only Rs 12.83 crore, which is barely 1.5% of the total amount defrauded. The remaining Rs 1,087 crore is yet to be recovered.

Spike in cases this year
The data shows that 261 cases of economic offences have already been registered in the city in 2025 alone, with frauds worth over Rs 229 crore reported so far. In fact, 2023 and 2024 witnessed the highest number of such cases in recent years, highlighting a disturbing trend of rising financial crime. Despite arrests being made in some cases, the overall detection rate remains poor. Out of the total 2,566 cases filed, police have managed to solve 1,749 cases, arresting 814 accused. But with 817 cases still pending investigation, victims are left waiting for justice.

Cybercrime threat growing
Alongside traditional financial frauds, cybercrime continues to pose a major threat to citizens. According to data from the National Cyber Crime Reporting Portal, over 6,000 people fall victim to cybercriminals every day across India. Experts predict that by the end of 2025, the total number of cybercrime complaints could exceed 25 lakh, reflecting the scale of the crisis.

Greed costing people their life savings
Investigations have revealed that a significant number of victims were lured into fraudulent investment schemes or fake online transactions, losing their life savings in the process. The police have urged citizens to exercise caution, especially while dealing with unfamiliar financial schemes or online platforms. While the Nagpur Police claim to be actively investigating pending cases, the dismal recovery rate and growing number of unsolved cases have raised concerns among residents and activists alike. The city police have been urged to adopt stricter measures, enhance cyber policing, and expedite investigations to curb the rising tide of economic offences.

Water supply mechanism in shambles in Gurudev Nagar GP

Lakhs of litres of water being wasted

Tiwasa 26 June (NAGPUR POST/TC): The water pipeline in the vicinity of the old rural hospital underpass in Tiwasa town has been leaking for the past several days and lakhs of litres of water are flowing into the ground. The water pipeline in question is meant for providing water supply to (Gurudev Nagar) and comes under the jurisdiction of the Gram Panchayat. Even though the leak in the incoming water pipeline has been taking place for the past several days, it has not been repaired yet due to the negligence of the Gram Panchayat authorities. The concerned water pipeline supplies water to the entire Mozari and Gurudev Nagar

villages from Wardha river. However, due to large-scale leakage taking place in the water pipeline, lakhs of litres of water is being wasted every day. At present, there is a shortage of water in the entire state. In such circumstances wastage of water is a very serious matter indeed, and the Gram Panchayat authorities are continuously ignoring the issue. This leakage has not been taking place from the last few days but it has been going on for the past several months. The concerned officials and the Gram Panchayat authorities have completely turned a blind eye to the issue. Water comes to the village only once in 2-3 days. But on the other hand, since lakhs of litres of water are being wasted due to leakage, this is not just a waste, but a harbinger of future water crisis. This sordid state of affairs is creating an atmosphere of anxiety among the local citizens. If the concerned people's representatives and office bearers of the Gram Panchayat do not pay attention to the issue in the nick of time, then the basic necessities of the citizens are being adversely affected. There is a strong demand coming to the fore on behalf of the citizens that this issue should be resolved immediately.

Residents of Malak Nagar slum in Umred get justice after 70 years

Efforts of Raju Parve and Pyare Khan bear fruit

Umred 26 June (NAGPUR POST/TC): A total of 283 poor families, including 121 minority community families, who have been living in Malak Nagar area of Umred taluka in Nagpur district for many years, have finally got relief. These families will now be given legal rights through lease on Waqf-owned land. This historic decision has been arrived at under the guidance of Chief Minister Devendra Fadnis, through the joint efforts of Maharashtra State Minority Commission Chairman Pyare Khan and BJP State Vice President Raju Parve. Recently, Pyare Khan visited Malak Nagar locality and interacted with the local citizens. BJP State Vice President and former legislator Raju Parve, as well as representatives of Mehdi Bagh Trust Noor Malak, Saifuddin Malak and other dignitaries were present on the occasion. The proposal to lease the land was arrived upon during this meeting, and it will now receive official approval in a joint meeting of the Minorities Commission, Revenue Department and Waqf Board to be held in Mumbai. The Malak Nagar slum is spread over an area of about 120 acres. The ownership of this locality is with Mehdi Bagh Trust, which donated this land for Waqf. However, for the past several decades, 283 families have been living here without permission. These include 109 families from Neo-Buddhist community, 11 families from Muslim community, 1 Christian family and several citizens from other communities. Encroachment removal notices were being issued from time to time. Therefore, the local citizens had demanded permanent ownership from former legislator Raju Parve. He raised the issue with senior officials and requested the Chairman of the Minorities Commission, Pyare Khan, to intervene regarding the issue. Since a large section of minority community brethren are settled on this land, Khan decided to lease the land after discussing it with the representatives of the Mehdi Bagh Trust. After this directive, former legislator assembly constituency Raju Parve said, "I have submitted several memoranda to the concerned authorities, but nothing has come out of it. However, when I raised this issue with Pyare Khan, he immediately took a positive stance on the matter and ensured completion of the process within a short span of just 30 days. Justice which had been eluding these people for 70 years is now being delivered." Minority Commission Chairman Pyare Khan said, "I had received a collective memorandum from 283 families. The minority communities predominantly live in this area and they are very weak from the financial point of view. Therefore, I personally intervened in this matter and we have arrived at a solution after discussing various intricacies of the case with all the parties concerned.
