BULLS EYE

Shivraya, Tipu poles apart

Maharashtra Pradesh Congress President Harshvardhan Sapkal always speaks on issues of the people. There is no trace of investigation behind him, he has not taken any bank loan to set up any institution. This activist traverses on a pure Gandhian path. A few years ago, before becoming an MLA, he took out a padayatra in Buldhana district under the leadership of Thakur Das Bang, the father of Dr. Abhay Bang, a senior Gandhian leader of the Search organisation in Gadchiroli district. Behind that initiative was his great desire for improvement of rural areas. We have seen for ourselves that he takes the initiative in many constructive works. When talking to this spotless Congress President, what language do we use, who do we talk about and what will be the consequences, one need not elaborate on these aspects. Therefore, it is necessary to be careful whether or not our opponents will be of the same nature or not. The day before yesterday, while speaking at a programme in Buldhana, he gave the example that Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj propagated the idea of bravery and Swarajya, just like Tipu Sultan had done the same work as him. We do not understand the need to create unnecessary upheavals to make Tipu Sultan a personality equal in terms of accomplishments to Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj. Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj was the founder of Swarajya, he established his Swarajya by challenging the Mughal Sultanate and Deccan Sultanates. He was so strong that Aurangzeb had to leave Delhi and then Agra and come to Maharashtra to defeat the Marathas. Finally, Allah took Aurangzeb's life in Maharashtra and within just 15 years, the Mughal Empire collapsed and never rose to its former glory ever again. History also records that his descendants were under the rule of the Marathas. No one will agree to compare such a world-renowned ruler in the history of India who established Swarajya with Tipu Sultan, who sat on the throne established by his father and forefathers. Tipu Sultan fought against the British alright, but his regime did not have the spirit of respecting all religions like Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj. Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj restored many temples and helped in restoring mosques for Muslims and building them. History is also well-known that if a Quran was found in his hands during wartime, he would respectfully give it to a Muslim officer or soldier in his army. The big question is how Harshvardhan remembered the audacity to compare Tipu Sultan, who could not even match Shivaji Maharaj's hair, to Shivaji Maharaj. Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis expressed this on his statement and said that he should be ashamed. Such a comparison between Tipu Sultan and Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj has sparked an unnecessary controversy. He says that the Bharatiya Janata Party does not want Muslim votes, does the Congress Party only want Muslim votes in turn? The Congress Party believes in equality among all religions, but this statement is an example of how a statement can backfire on itself. Harshvardhan Sapkal needs to speak on many issues facing us. The issues of farmers are such that they are making us commit suicide. Inflation is rising like a mountain day by day, unemployment is swelling like bread from a bakery. So when these issues of today are standing before our eyes, they can make fierce attacks on them like Rahul Gandhi and that is the job of the opposition party, why should they leave that and involve themselves in unnecessary disputes. When the Bharatiya Janata Party was in opposition, they protested on the very same issue and today they are in power. Their grip on power is so strong today that it is not easy to gain power by opposing them. Despite having a visible majority, the moon has not risen in Chandrapur, on the contrary, it has set. The big question before them is to resolve the long-standing disputes within the Congress party rank and file. Making Tipu Sultan great instead of resolving the divisions within the warring factions is an undesirable act. After understanding its essence, he should speak in a civilised manner according to his nature. This is all that the entire people of Maharashtra, including Buldhankars, the motherland district of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj, want.

Hail Jijau! Hail Shivaji!!

BJP and Congress workers clash in Pune over statement on Tipu Sultan

Pune, Feb 15 (UNI) Tensions flared up in Pune on Sunday over a statement reportedly made by Maharashtra Congress President Harshvardhan Sapkal that Tipu Sultan should be regarded on par with Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj. The remark triggered strong reactions from BJP workers who organized a protest march to the city's Congress Bhawan. India in drivers seat against arch rivals Pak

Colombo 15 February:

Pakistan have lost three wickets in the first two overs to slump to 13/3 with Hardik Pandya sending back Sahibzada Farhan for a duck in the 1st over, and then Jasprit Bumrah claiming the wickets of Saim Ayub (six runs) and Salman Ali Agha (four) while chasing 176 in Colombo. Earlier, Saim Ayub was Pakistan's top wicket-taker with three scalps, including the wickets of Tilak Varma (25) and Hardik Pandya (0) on successive deliveries, to halt the momentum. India were given by Ishan Kishan, who slammed a 40-ball 77 against Pakistan in Colombo. Captain Suryakumar Yadav managed a mature 32 while the much-talked-about

Usman Tariq ended the game with just a single wicket at last. Pakistan skipper Salman Ali Agha had won the toss and opted to bowl first against Suryakumar Yadav's India in Colombo on Sunday. Both sides are unbeaten in the tournament so far. India has beaten the USA and Namibia before this clash, while Pakistan had a close shave against the Netherlands before brushing aside the USA. While the advantage Pakistan holds is that they have been in Sri Lanka for a while, on the other hand, India has been playing in India on conditions quite different from what they might find in Colombo. As per the combinations, Indian batting has looked a bit vulnerable compared to their fluent best in the bilateral series against New Zealand ahead of the tournament. While Pakistan, in their opening game against the Netherlands, did look like where going to crumble under the pressure of ICC events as they did before, they have managed to pull off a nail-biting thriller. And in the second game, they have looked well-rounded and have played at their best to thrash the USA.

TATRA Jungle Safari timings altered

Chandrapur 15

February: During summer, Chandrapur district's temperature is higher than that of other districts in the region. Keeping this aspect in mind, the timings for the Jungle Safari at Tadoba Andhari Tiger Reserve have been changed to allow tigers to roam around freely. The new timings have been implemented in TATR since February 13. According to the new timings, from February 13 to March 31, the afternoon safari will be from 2:30 pm to 6:30 pm. From April 1 to June 30, the afternoon safari will be from 3:00 pm to 6:15 pm. The total safari time will be from 6:30 am to 6:15 pm. The morning safari will be from 6:30 am to 10:30 am, and the afternoon safari will be from 2:30 pm to 6:30 pm. The timings of the Tadoba Andhari Tiger Reserve's jungle safari are changed every year starting May 1. However, signs of higher temperatures in the upcoming summer have begun to emerge since February. Therefore, given the drop in temperatures during the winter and the potential for a cold wave to intensify, the Tadoba Andhari Tiger Reserve management has already changed the timings of the tiger safari. During summers, tigers and other animals come to drink water at natural and artificial water sources, increasing the chances of tiger sightings. However, the timings have been changed in order to avoid inconvenience to tourists during the summer season. Jungle safaris are conducted in the core area and buffer zone. Tadoba has over 200 tigers, so tourists from India and abroad are drawn to the Tadoba Andhari

Tiger Reserve in the hope of tiger sightings. Tadoba's core area has 6 gates: Moharli, Tadoba, Kolara, Navegaon, Khutwanda, and Jhari/Pangdi. Similarly, the major gates in the buffer zone include Agarjhari, Dewada, Junona Ramdegi, Navegaon, Madanpur, Alijanha, Sirkada, Pangdi, Jhari/Peth, and Kesalghat. The numerous wild animal viewing opportunities in Tadoba, combined with the fascinating experience which one can come across in core area and buffer zones, are contributing to the growing number of tourists flocking to the tiger reserve.

MSEDCL raid; School meter seized, fined Rs 2.65 lakh

MAREGAON / NAGPUR POST: A team of Mahavitaran has claimed to have uncovered alleged irregularities in electricity usage by conducting a surprise raid on 'Shri Shivaji International School and Junior College' in the city on February 10. After the inspection, the relevant electricity meter was seized and the institution's electricity supply was immediately disconnected.

Official sources informed that a fine of Rs 2 lakh 65 thousand has been imposed in this case. During the inspection, Mahavitaran officials said that a suspicious pattern was found that the meter supply could be switched off and on through a button installed in a room. It is said that it was observed that the meter stops when the button is turned off and starts again when it is turned on. Due to this, it has been suspected that there is a discrepancy between the actual electricity usage and the meter reading. According to the initial estimates of the officials, the institution was expecting an electricity bill of Rs 10 to 15 thousand per month, but the actual bill was only Rs 700 to 1000. In the backdrop of this discrepancy, punitive action has been taken as per the rules and further technical inspection and verification of documents is underway, it was said. Meanwhile, the action taken against the educational institution has created a stir in the taluka and various reactions are being received from the citizens. MSEDCL has expressed the possibility of additional fines or legal action if the violation of the rules is proven.

Nature lover fulfills pledge of 411 nests, water points for birds

Risod 15 February: Rapid urbanisation, large-scale tree felling for roads and building construction, and changing climatic conditions have hit the tiny sparrows worst. Once commonly seen nesting in tiled roofs and trees in courtyards, sparrows are now becoming increasingly rare. At a time when their natural habitats are disappearing, nature enthusiast Vinod Bangar from Risod took the initiative to install 411 bird nests and water points. Successfully fulfilling his pledge, he has set an inspiring example in environmental conservation. The initiative is not limited to Risod alone but has also been implemented across the district and beyond. With scorching summers and a declining number of trees, birds are struggling to find safe places to build nests.

The growing scarcity of drinking water further leaves many birds distressed and thirsty. Recognising this silent suffering, Vinod Bangar chose action over mere concern. He personally visited various locations to install safe and durable nests for sparrows. To help birds cope with the harsh summer heat, he also placed water bowls at multiple spots, creating dedicated water points for them.

Adani completes Indamer Technologies acquisition to expand MRO Footprint

Mumbai, Feb 15 (UNI) The Adani Group has officially announced that it has completed the acquisition of Indamer Technologies Pvt Ltd (ITPL) to expand its footprint in the aircraft services and MRO industry.

The Adani Group-owned Horizon Aero Solutions Ltd, which is a step-down subsidiary of Adani Enterprises Ltd, has acquired 100 percent shareholding in ITPL through a share purchase agreement, according to a stock exchange filing made late Friday.

The enterprise value of Indamer Technologies is Rs 330 crore and the deal was first announced in August 2025, the statement mentioned.

"ITPL is one of India's leading private sector MRO companies. It operates a state-of-the-art 30-acre facility in the MIHAN SEZ in Nagpur and offers a comprehensive suite of MRO services to leading Indian and global customers," according to the statement.

HorizonAero, which is a private-sector Maintenance, Repair and Overhaul (MRO) provider, is a 50-50 partnership between Adani Defence & Prime Aero, a company owned by Prajy Patel, the director of Indamer Technologies. Prajy Patel happens to be the son of Ajit Pawar-led NCPL leader and former civil aviation minister Praful Patel.

Indamer's Nagpur facility has the capacity to accommodate 15 aircraft bays across 10 hangars. It has received approvals from Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA), Federal Aviation Administration (USA) and other global civil aviation regulators.

The Adani Group, which runs eight domestic airports, entered the MRO space in December 2025 after it acquired Air Works for Rs 400 crore (USD 44 million). Air Works has a strong presence in India, particularly in the line and base maintenance categories. The acquisition of Airworks was followed by the purchase of Indamer Technologies through Adani Defense Systems and Technologies Ltd (ADSTL), which strengthened the Adani Group's capabilities in commercial and defence aircraft maintenance. ADSTL, in partnership with Prime Aero Services LLP, acquired a 100 per cent stake in Indamer Technologies, creating the foundation for a consolidated MRO platform. As part of its MRO business expansion plans, the Adani Group has indicated that it will go beyond airframe maintenance and enter landing gear overhaul, aircraft painting, passenger-to-freighter (P2F) conversions and eventually engine maintenance as well. There are also plans to expand its physical footprint, with new local MRO bases planned in Ahmedabad, Bhubaneswar and Guwahati, in addition to existing MRO facilities.

The Adani Group has announced plans to invest USD 11 billion in its airport business over the next five years, underlining its long-term commitment to India's aviation sector. Significantly, the Adani Group has made these investments at a time when Indian airlines are preparing to induct around 1,700 aircraft over the coming years, driving demand for maintenance, training and support services.

The Adani Group has also entered the pilot training segment by acquiring a 72.8 percent stake in Flight Simulation Technique Centre (FSTC) for around USD 90 million in order to support the growing aviation ecosystem.

EDITORIAL

I had left for Yavatmal after completing my tour of Nagpur. In Yavatmal, my old best friend Prakash Gaikwad was battling death. Prakash was my colleague and friend when I was in 'Lokmat' in Nanded. During that time at Lokmat, we had often wandered around the streets at night in search of news. From chats at tea stalls to serious discussions in the editorial office, Prakash was my constant companion at all times thick and thin. But now he was standing on the slim line differentiating life and death. As soon as he entered that hospital room, my mind went numb. Despite the heavy medication, the doctors' efforts, the strength in his body was still leaving bit by bit with every passing day. But the sparkle in his eyes had not dimmed as yet. As soon as he saw me, he put a light smile on his lips and said,

'Oh, you have come! Now I have nothing to worry about.' At that moment, my words stumbled on my lips. Tears welled up in my eyes. A thought came to my mind. We write about people's problems all our lives, give them a voice. But when a close friend is battling for life, how helpless we are, this aspect comes to the fore. I sat quietly, holding his hand. Many memories filled my mind. The battle for deadlines that lasted until dawn after waking up at night, the news of the rush from village to village, the journey on a bicycle and Prakash's hearty laughter. The idea that this warrior of journalism is standing on the border of life and death today shattered my mind. Prakash had been afflicted with cancer. He was undergoing treatment to get out of the last stage. Prakash's mother was talking to me. She said that he had spent 9 months in Mumbai. Now he is feeling a little better. He has been undergoing treatment here in this hospital for around 2 years now.

I could see the immense suffering in her heart amid the tears flowing from a mother's eyes. She told me all the troubles of the past. She said that Prakash always had a craving for eating outside, that's why the doctor told him that he got cancer, in the first meeting.

I also knew Prakash's habits. I looked at Prakash and turned to my mother and asked, 'Mom, how did you manage to spend so much?' My aunt told me the whole story.

I was shocked to hear it. She said, 'I was told that it would cost Rs 30 lakh rupees. But thanks to Dr. Omprakash Shete, it all happened for just Rs 30 rupees.'

One name kept coming up in her speech, Dr. Omprakash Shete.

My aunt's voice was trembling in turn.

A friend of Prakash introduced me to Dr. Shete. From that day onwards, he never left us. Such a great man came running like a deity and stayed with us like a shadow until we left Mumbai. We changed 4 hospitals, but we didn't spend a single penny. On the contrary, he even gave us the money we needed for the expenses. Seeing Prakash's little children, tears came to Shete's eyes on the very first visit. My mother's words made me shiver. Dr.

His hands have given a new lease of life to millions of people, whose eyes shed tears at the suffering of others, whose steps bring hope to the doors of the poor. When Dr. Shete's name is mentioned, only one word comes to mind, 'In the name of the angel, good!' I left Yavatmal for Mumbai. While on the way, I called Dr. Omprakash Shete. I told him about Prakash's happiness and asked for an appointment to meet him. I could feel the love and simplicity in his voice. He immediately called me for a meeting. Before going to meet him, I found out about Dr. Shete's work as a journalist and what I learned from that research journey was literally heart-breaking. He was a man, piercing the intricate machinations of the government system. Despite the selfish interests of many people and the displeasure of those in power, this man is striving for the lives and betterment of millions of people. Dr. Shete's work is not just medical service, but a fountain of life that gives new hope to the breath of a person standing on the verge of death. He made many in the society his enemies, but still he sacrificed his life to wipe the tears from the eyes of the poor brethren. One truth stood before my eyes, God is not in idols, but in the form of such people, and that is why people call him 'Devdoot'. Entire Maharashtra has experienced the work carried out by Dr. Omprakash Shete when he was in the Chief Minister's Medical Assistance Cell in the Mantralaya from 2015 to 2019. At that time, the seal of his social work had left a mark of credibility on the government system. The people looked up to Dr. Shete as the messiah who opened the doors of as many as 3500 hospitals in the state for the poor. He provided assistance of Rs 598 crore to thousands of patients who were in the last difficult stage of their lives, which was truly his historic achievement. It was after glorifying this work that Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis appointed him as the head of the entire healthcare system of the state from April 1. Today, he directs both the important

But one thing was the same—in all of their stories, the name of Dr. Omprakash Shete was the symbol of 'jeevandani'. I met Tapasya Terti, a 4-year-old girl, and her parents. She wanted to thank Dr. Omprakash Shete. I spoke to Tapasya's father and was amazed by what he told me.

Tapasya's father was a rickshaw puller residing in a small village, supporting his family. When his daughter fell seriously ill, a pall of gloom descended on the entire family. Tapasya needed a liver transplant. But the cost was more than Rs 25 lakh! The father's poverty, the girl's tender age and immense helplessness, all of these things deeply affected him.

Tapasya's father went around knocking on many doors, but to no avail. Finally, with the help of a friend, he contacted Dr. Shete and there he saw a ray of hope. With Dr. Shete's efforts, Tapasya underwent a successful liver transplant at a renowned hospital in Delhi. The cost of the operation was covered by a government scheme and Shete also provided her with financial and mental support, feeling that 'Tapasya is now a part of my family.' TEJASWINI KALE /

RALEGAON / NAGPUR POST: The palas trees are currently blooming in the Malvan and field edges of the area, creating a beautiful scene. The dark orange-red flowers that bloom in the spring around Holi festival create a feeling of a flame burning in the area. Palas is an Ayurvedic medicinal tree that grows in India. Its wide and thick leaves, as wide as the palm of your hand, were previously used for Patravali (meal plates). The tradition of using Patravali on Akshaya Tritiya is still followed in some areas. Dhuli vandan festival was celebrated by preparing natural colors from palas flowers; however, this custom has fallen behind due to the increasing use of artificial colors. The bitter-tasting seeds are called palaspapadi and are used medicinally. On the day of Bailpola, the stems of palas are used to grind the shoulders of bulls. However, this multi-purpose tree is currently on the verge of extinction. Meanwhile, there are palas trees in the nearby Panchal Shiva and these trees are in bloom. These flowers are attracting the attention of passers-by on the street.

Anjangaon Bari 15

(NAGPUR POST/TC): The Anjangaon Bari-Kondeshwar road stretch, which has been awaiting renovation for the past few years, is currently in a completely dilapidated state. Despite the clear mention of renovation and asphalting of this road in the Rs 25 crore fund made available by the government for the development of the Kondeshwar pilgrimage site, citizens and devotees are expressing displeasure as the work is being delayed. In the summit held on August

21, 2018, in the presence of the then Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis and Guardian Minister Praveen Pote, Rs 25 crore was approved from the Pilgrimage Development Fund. Although various development works have started after the funds were made available, the renovation of the Anjangaon Bari-Kondeshwar road stretch has not yet been completed as yet. Considering the delay in the work, MLA Ravi Rana approved a fund of Rs. 1 crore from the ZP Construction Department. From this fund, a foundation stone was also laid recently (February 5) for the concretisation of the road stretch. However, this has created new confusion among the citizens.

Armed robbery of 45 tolas of gold, incident comes to light on Balaji Nagar-Kathora road

Amravati 15 February

(NAGPUR POST/DC): A shocking incident took place on Friday night in the Balaji Nagar to Kathora Road area where robbers snatched away 45 tolas (459 grams) of gold ornaments and Rs 1.70 lakh in cash from a bullock merchant at knifepoint. This incident has created an atmosphere of fear among the business community in the city. According to information, Sushant Manohar Sherekar (aged 43 years, resident of Balaji Nagar, Amravati) runs a jewellery shop named 'Sumitra Jewellery Art' near the hospital on Kathora road. On February 13, at around 9.13 pm, he closed the shop and kept 459 grams of gold ornaments (estimated value being Rs. 36.72 lakh) and Rs. 1 lakh 70 thousand in cash in a yellow cloth bag. He then left for home on a moped (serial number MH 27/BD 0692). Meanwhile, a black car coming from behind near the Balaji Nagar signboard overtook him and stopped him on the side of the road stretch. Three unidentified men who got out of the car pushed Sherekar and knocked him down. Then, threatening him with a knife, they opened the trunk of the moped and looted the ornaments and cash in the

bag. After the robbery, the accused fled towards Gurudev Nagar. After the robbery, the suspects fled in the car. Since the faces of all three were completely covered, it is being perceived that Sherekar could only see their eyes amid the shining streetlights. Major road stretches in the city have been blocked and special teams have been formed to Battle for power in Nagar Panchayat; Rebellion against the whip

MAHAGAON /

NAGPUR POST: A special meeting will be held on Monday, February 16 at 11 am on the no-confidence motion against the civic chief of Mahagaon Nagar Panchayat, Sunanda Dilip Suroshe Koparkar, and the final vote on the power of Mahagaon will be taken. The entire taluka is paying attention to this meeting, which will be chaired by Sub-divisional Officer Sakaram Mule, and the reputation of the ruling party is at stake. The opposition has taken an aggressive stance, claiming that the necessary calculations have been completed for the transfer of power. In this meeting, called on the orders of the District Magistrate, a direct vote will be taken after the resolution is discussed. If the no-confidence motion is passed, the post of mayor will immediately become vacant and the process of new power sharing will begin. Therefore, this meeting will not be just a formality but will be a decisive battle for power. Political activities have gained momentum in the Nagar Panchayat at present. Although the ruling factions are making great efforts to lure and persuade the corporators, it is evident that this effort is proving fruitless. Due to this, an atmosphere has been created even before the voting. Congress group leader and former deputy civic chief, current councilor Shailesh Koparkar has issued a party order and instructed all the members to vote against the no-confidence motion through a whip. However, due to internal discord in the Congress, local factionalism and discontent of some members, this whip will not be effective. Congress councilors are preparing to defy the whip and take an independent stand. Due to this, a change of power is considered inevitable. Due to this, the ruling faction is worried. Meanwhile, although information is coming out that the ruling faction has knocked on the door of the court against this process, the final result will be decided by the counting of votes in the House. Mahagaon's power is standing in the shadow of judicial moves, whip and possible rebellion. Therefore, now the real majority of the BJP is increasing and this will be clear from tomorrow's voting. This has created a situation of "milk for milk, water for water". According to political analysts, the big split in the Congress has increased the chances of a no-confidence motion being passed. For the post of new president, the name of Ranjana Aade is coming forward from the BJP and Jayashree Narwade is being seen as an alternative from the Congress. However, the future leadership will be decided only on who gets the majority. Tomorrow's voting will be a turning point in Mahagaon's politics and the true nature of party loyalty, factionalism and local equations will be tested. The result of who will win the battle for power will be decided in this meeting and the future political direction of Mahagaon will also be decided from it.

At the end of 2025, the number has gone down to 15– 25 less than that of last year. Equal number of fall of deceased donors registered in Maharashtra too. Last year Maharashtra witnessed 175 cadaveric donations but this year the number has gone down to 153. In 2017, the number of donations was 18, in 2018 also Nagpur registered 18 cases while in 2019, it rose to 20. The number dwindled in 2020 and 2021 during pandemic. The year 2022 began with cadaveric organ donation in the first week of January itself. Later, various hospitals in Nagpur reported to Zonal Transplant Coordination Committee (ZTCC), about brain-dead cases. But, despite counselling, the relatives said 'no' to donations. In 2022 the number too gone down. In 2023, the number went up to 35 and in 2024, it rose to

40. Dr Sanjay Kolte, President of ZTCC while talking to reporters admitted that the registration of deceased donors gone down this year. "We face one major issue of counseling. Convincing people at that time is very difficult. The time is very different so nobody can force. Unless relatives agree, we can't do anything. More awareness campaign is needed to increase cadaveric organ donations. At some places the organ donation after cardiac death (DCD) too is taking place despite the brain-dead ones. If people agree to it more patients can be given new lease of life." Usually ZTCC witnesses waiting list of patients for kidney between 250 and 300, for liver around 50 to 75. But this year the waiting list increased to over 1,000 for kidney, about 500 for liver. Dilip Deshmukh, the 69-year-old liver recipient from Gujarat had been to Nagpur and had said that people have myths. They feel the bodies of their kins get disfigured. Surprisingly, Mumbai, Pune are not facing the issue of less cadaveric donations. In

CM calls for cancer care innovations to reach all corners of the world

Nagpur 15 February: Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis on Saturday emphasized that cancer poses one of the greatest challenges to India's healthcare system and called for innovations in cancer treatment to reach every corner of the world, noting that "humanity knows no borders." Speaking at the inauguration of the international conference "Oncology Beyond Borders" at the National Cancer Institute, Nagpur, Fadnavis highlighted the urgent need for early detection and timely treatment of cancer.

He warned that cancer cases have been increasing at an unprecedented rate over the past decade. "India, which has made remarkable progress in eradicating certain diseases, now faces the immense challenge of cancer," Fadnavis said. "It is not just an Indian problem—it is a global concern," he said. Citing United Nations data, he said global cancer incidence could rise by 75% in the next 20 years. Maharashtra alone has seen an alarming 11% increase in cancer cases over the last five years.

The situation is indeed worrying. The time has come not only to treat cancer but also to prevent it," he added. Fadnavis underlined the importance of equipping healthcare systems to screen suspected cases effectively, calling for the development of a Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) to identify and manage early-stage cancer. He also spoke about the Maharashtra Cancer Care, Research and Education (MAHACARE) Foundation, a state initiative aimed at expanding access to cancer treatment across Maharashtra.

He also praised the National Cancer Institute, Nagpur, for its pioneering research and treatment facilities, which serve patients from across India. "Cancer care must be made more affordable through innovative treatment protocols," he said, noting that the Central Government, under Prime Minister Narendra Modi, is lowering taxes on imported cancer drugs, radiation machines and related equipment to reduce costs for patients. The Chief Minister highlighted the transformative role of medtech, biotech, and Artificial Intelligence (AI) in healthcare, which are helping make treatments more predictable, efficient and accessible. "In cancer care, there is a pressing need for innovation and research to develop tools for early detection so that treatment can start at the earliest stage," he said. Fadnavis stressed that breakthroughs in cancer treatments should not remain limited to individual institutions but must benefit people worldwide. "The fight against cancer should transcend borders, because being human means ensuring that no one suffers, regardless of nationality," he added.

Fadnavis used word 'equivalent' to ignite religious controversy in state: Atul Londhe

Nagpur 15 February:

Congress state chief spokesperson Atul Londhe today responded to Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis' criticism of Congress state president Harshwardhan

Sapkals alleged that Fadnavis has tried to take the historical context of the word "equivalent" in a different sense to try to spark religious controversy. When Congress state president Harshwardhan Sapkal compared Tipu Sultan and Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj as "equivalent", Devendra Fadnavis criticized it, saying that comparing Tipu Sultan, who killed thousands of Hindus, with Shivaji Maharaj was not appropriate.

Responding to CM Fadnavis' criticism while talking to a section of media here, the Congress spokesperson alleged that Fadnavis has tried to take the historical context of the word "equivalent" in a different sense to try to spark religious controversy.

This is a silly attempt and the Congress strongly condemns it, he said. Taking selective words from an opposition party leader's statement to create religious tension and using religion in politics to criticize opponents is an old strategy of the BJP, he countered and charged that the government was ignoring the state's major problems. "The government is ignoring the key problems of the state. On serious issues like unemployment, inflation, farmers' suicides and rising electricity prices, the ruling party is silent. To improve people's lives, the BJP has not taken any concrete steps. Instead, it is trying to mislead the public with unstable political issues," Londhe said. The word "equivalent" was used only in a historical context, but Fadnavis has interpreted it differently and tried to create religious tension in society.

Londhe said that using religion in politics to criticize opponents is an old BJP strategy. The economic situation in the state is also worrisome. Due to inflation, ordinary citizens have become strained and unemployment has made the youth insecure.

Farmers' suicides and poorly remunerative crop prices have increased stress in rural areas, he added.

MP Amar Kale pushes for 6 new nationalised bank branches in rural Wardha amid growing population and closures

Wardha 15 February (NAGPUR POST/DC): In a bid to ease banking issues in rural Wardha district, MP Amar Sh. Kale has urged Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman and the Mumbai Managing Director of nationalized banks to open six new branches in underserved villages. Wardha's population has nearly doubled from 1.3 million in the 2011 census to around 2.8 million today, yet rural residents face major hurdles due to limited access.

The district currently has 115 nationalized bank branches and six rural bank branches, but 48 branches of the Wardha Central Cooperative Bank have been shuttered for the past 15 years—mostly in rural areas—forcing locals to travel far for transactions. Nationalized banks often hesitate to expand into villages, but persistent demands from residents prompted MP Kale to propose branches at Talegaon (Talatule, Wardha taluka), Dahegaon (Gosavi, Selu taluka), Rasulabad (Arvi taluka), Nara (Karanja taluka), Vela (Hinganghat taluka), and Sevagram (Wardha taluka). Though 2011 census figures show populations under 5,000, Kale emphasized that current numbers exceed this threshold in 2026. Highlighting local economic drivers like Sindh's dry fruit market, Sevagram's industrial zone, and government schemes disbursed via banks, Kale met officials and sent formal letters to fast-track approvals. "With all transactions now bank-dependent, these branches are essential for rural empowerment," he stated.

Raghujibhonsle's sword will come to Nagpur soon: Fadnavis

Nagpur 15 February: Chief minister Devendra Fadnavis on Saturday assured that the historic sword of Raghujibhonsle will soon be brought to Nagpur, stating that the date of its arrival would be finalized in consultation with the royal family. He made the announcement while addressing the Raj Ratna Award distribution ceremony at Senior Bhonsle Palace, drawing loud applause from the audience. Confirming this to reporters after the event, Fadnavis said, "I had already made this promise."

The sword is currently in Mumbai, and we will bring it to Nagpur very soon."Earlier, a light-hearted moment unfolded at the palace during Fadnavis' speech, when Mudhoji Bhonsle walked up, seemingly to remind the CM about the long-awaited sword. Without turning back, Fadnavis paused and said, "I know why Mudhoji has come here. He has come to remind me when the sword of Raghujibhonsle will come to Nagpur. You decide the date—the sword will come to Nagpur on that date. I promise you."The assurance assumes significance as the sword returned to India in August last year after being purchased at an auction in London in April. Members of the Nagpur Bhonsle family, along with citizens of Nagpur, have since been awaiting its arrival in the city. Sources at the Bhonsle Palace said the royal family is keen to finalize the earliest possible date, likely in March, following the CM's public assurance. However, they added that the final decision will be taken only after confirming the schedule with Fadnavis. In his address, Fadnavis recalled how Raghujibhonsle expanded Hindavi Swarajya eastwards into present-day Chhattisgarh, Odisha and Bengal.

He said the Nagpur Bhonsles played a significant role in reviving and sustaining traditions at the historic Jagannath Temple in Puri after periods of disruption. He also noted that artefacts and memories linked to the Bhonsle family are preserved in museums in Odisha, underscoring the enduring historical ties between Nagpur and the eastern region. Describing the Raj Ratna Award as an honour rooted in royal legacy, Fadnavis said recognitions conferred by the Nagpur Bhonsle family carry deep historical significance. He congratulated awardees from fields including sports, literature, arts, and social service. The event was attended by Samapatiya Ukey, Madhya Pradesh's Public Health Engineering Minister, Shrimant Raje Raghuji Bhonsle (Pancham), and Shrimant Raje Mudhoji Bhonsle, among others. The ceremony was presided over by Gurumauli Annasaheb More, a renowned spiritual leader and head of the Dindori Pranesh Shree Swami Samarth Seva Marg.
